- Text:

Hi, my name is Dreolin Fleischer. I am a doctoral student at Claremont Graduate University. I would like to share resources, at different price points, I have used to capture and organize qualitative and quantitative telephone interview data.

One resource I have used in the past is Microsoft Office Access. You can create a form in Access that mirrors the interview protocol you are using. You control where each field on each form is located and you can create multiple tabs for different interview questions. As you conduct the interview you enter the interviewee's responses directly into the field associated with the question you posed. Cost: $$
